

Voter ID laws

23 states and the District of Columbia currently have the minimum HAVA ID requirements - first-time voters who register by mail and do not provide ID verification with their registration must show ID before voting. Photo and non-photo ID accepted in these states. (CA, DC, ID, IL, IA, ME, MD, MA, MN, MS, NE, NV, NH, NJ, NY, NC, OK, OR, RI, UT, VT, WV, WI, WY)

18 states require ID for all voters. Photo and non-photo ID accepted in these states. (AL, AK, AZ, AR, CO, CT, DE, KY, MO, MT, NM, ND, OH, SC, TN, TX, VA, WA)

3 states require all voters show photo ID. Voters without the proper ID will be offered provisional ballots. (FL, GA, IN)

4 states request all voters show photo ID. Voters without the proper ID can sign affidavits and cast regular (non-provisional) ballots. (HI, LA, MI, SD)

2 states require ID of all first-time voters. Photo and non-photo ID accepted in these states. (KS, PA)

Notes: In Florida, if the voter does not have the required ID they are required to vote a provisional ballot. The canvassing board determines the validity of the ballot.

In Georgia, the state law requiring photo ID at the polls is still the subject of litigation. If the voter does not have the required ID they must vote a provisional ballot. The provisional ballot will only be counted if the registrars are able to verify ID of the elector within the time period for verifying provisional ballots.

In Indiana, if the voter is unable or unwilling to present photo ID on Election Day, they may cast a provisional ballot. They have until noon 10 days after the election to follow up with the county election board and either provide photo ID or affirm one of the law's exemptions applies.

In Michigan, state law requiring photo ID at the polls is the subject of litigation.

Virginia	All voters - photo and non-photo ID accepted	Acceptable forms of identification include the following: Virginia Voter ID card, Valid Virginia driver's license, Military ID, Any federal, state or local government-issued ID, employer issued photo ID card, social security card. Any voter who forgets to bring acceptable ID to the polls may still vote but, will be requested to sign, under oath, an Affirmation of Identity form affirming that he/she is the voter he/she claims to be. For persons who registered to vote in Virginia by mailing their registration applications on or after January 1, 2003, the federal Help America Vote Act of 2002 requires those persons to show identification (ID) when voting for the first time in a federal election if they did not send a copy of one of these IDs with their voter registration applications. Any of the following types of ID are acceptable: A current and valid photo ID (for example a driver's license); or a current utility bill, bank statement, government check or paycheck that shows name and address; or another government document that shows name and address (for example a voter card). This new federal ID requirement applies the first time a person votes in any federal election, either on the day of the election or by absentee ballot. If the voter does not present one of these forms of ID at the polls, that person can still vote, but must cast a conditional ballot. This is a paper ballot that the local electoral board counts the day after the election, after it verifies the person was qualified to vote in that precinct. When the person votes in other elections after his or her first federal election, the regular Virginia ID requirement will apply, as it does to all other voters. Source: State board of elections Web site
